Enjoy a more personalized website browsing experience

Cookies definition

Cookies are pieces of information stored on your computer by the websites you visit, which enable you to perform certain functions on the website and adjust their content according to your preferences. They can store data on key information pages that you provide (for example, when you provide a password), but only if you are asked and accepted to store this information. Cookies can be used on some pages of the website to provide a more customized web browsing experience for our website users; they are not used to identify anyone's personal identity, they are just to visit the website.

What type of cookies do we use

Session cookies

These cookies are temporary cookies and they are deleted when you close your browser. Session cookies are used to retain the information you provide us while browsing various parts of our website.

You can choose to reject session cookies through your browser's privacy settings, but be aware that this may negatively affect your browsing experience, especially if you reject session cookies on all websites.

Analytical cookies

Analytical cookies include temporary and more persistent cookies, which we use to track how and how long you use our website. Analytical cookies do not reveal any personally identifiable information about you, but they do help us improve the way we deliver content.

Please refer to your browser's privacy settings to learn how to opt out of analytical cookies.

Functional cookies

Functional cookies record and save your choices so that we can provide you with a smoother web browsing experience. One use of functional cookies is to remember your language choice every time you visit our website.

Please refer to your browser's emergency privacy settings to learn how to opt out of functional cookies.

Third-party cookies

These cookies are used by third parties, mainly social media sites such as Google+, Facebook or YouTube. Third-party cookies allow us to easily share our content on your social media and show you videos we post on YouTube.

You can disable these cookies through your browser's privacy settings, but please note that this will also disable all of the above features.

Why do we use cookies

As mentioned earlier, we use cookies to ensure the best functionality of our website and to satisfy your personal preferences. As a regulated dealer, you can rest assured that any personal information we collect by any means will not be shared with third parties.

Please read our privacy policy for more information on how we use your data. If you have further questions, please feel free to contact us .
